Red Sox Turn Back California, 5 to 3, in Tenth

Bosox Take 7th Straight; Hit .500 Mark

Journal Bulletin Wire Reports
Anahim — Ben Oglivie's two-run homer drove in the winning run with two out in the 10th inning and gave the Boston Red Sox a 5-3 victory over the California Angels last night.

It was the Sox' seventh victory in a row and brought them to the .500 mark, with a 16-16 record for the first time this season.

The triumph also lifted the third-place Red Sox to within 1½ games of Baltimore in the American League East. Ken Boyer, who drove in all the Angel runs, had tied the score with a home single with two out in the ninth following Jim Speiser's pinch double and Sandy Alomar's infield hit.

Bob Fothergill singled with one out in the 10th off Steve Barber, the fourth California pitcher, and Oglivie homered into the right field stands one out later.

Burton Hurls PawSox Past Reading, 2-0

Special to the Journal-Bulletin
Reading, Pa. — Jim Burton shut out the Reading Phillies on eight hits last night as the Pawtucket Red Sox scored a 2-0 victory in Eastern League action.

Frank Mazzarino paced the PawSox seven-hit attack with two hits.

The two teams will meet here again tonight.

Yankees Beaten On Killebrew HR

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP) — Harmon Killebrew slammed a two-run homer with two out in the seventh inning, lifting the Minnesota Twins and new Manager Frank Quattrone to a 5-2 victory over the New York Yankees last night.

Killebrew's 12th home run of the season and 52nd as a career came off Yankee starter Fritz Peterson.

The 385-foot shot to left-center field came after Fred Carter's single, raising a 2-1 New York lead and giving unbeaten reliever Wayne Granger his third victory.

Ron Letiecq of Wannamoisett watches his 80-yard approach shot bounce into the cup on the 15th hole in second-round match with Gary Reynolds of West Warwick. Letiecq birdied the hole but lost the match.

Quinn Gains in Amateur; Smith Bows in Upset String

By ED DICKWORTH
Defending champion Ronnie Quinn advanced easily, but medalist Charlie Smith was eliminated yesterday as match play began in the State Amateur Golf Championship at the Agawan Hunt in East Providence.

Quinn, the 40-year-old West Warwick lawyer who is seeking a record-tying sixth amateur title, overpowered 20-year-old Ron Smith, the 22-year-old Johnston bartender who captured the medal with a 36-hole total of 145, three over par, wasn't so fortunate.

He squeezed past Peter Troy of Wannamoisett, 1 up, by sinking a 35-footer on the 18th green in the morning. Quinn forced a 5-and-3 decision to long-hitting Stan Abrams of Metacomb in the afternoon.

Smith's departure from the scene was only one of several surprises that occurred as younger players generally put the old guard on the sidelines.

Among the veterans eliminated in the morning were two former state champions, Ed Campanelli of Metacomb and Frank McBride of R. I. Country Club.

Campanelli dropped a heart-breaking 1-up decision to 19-year-old Charles G. Gow of Wannamoisett edged McBride in a 19-hole thriller.

Campanelli, the 1948 and 64 state champ, went 1 down to Karas when he bogeyed the 392-yard 16th hole.

The players halted the 372-yard 17th with birdies, but Campanelli finally pulled even by sinking a 15-footer for a winning birdie at No. 18. But Karas won the match on the first extra hole when he made a par and Campanelli took a bogey after hitting his drive into the rough.

Karas, a University of North Carolina freshman from East Providence, gained the quarterfinal round in the afternoon as he eliminated the long-hitting veteran, Difo Cunniff of Metacomb.

Karas' opponent this morning will be Gow, a Dartmouth College junior who edged 20-year-old Charles Hayes of Newport, 1 up, in the afternoon round after having disposed of Frank McBride in the morning.

Gow, a post entry in the tournament, was 4 over par in his 18-hole match with the Blue. He started fast in the afternoon, however, winning four of the first five holes from Hayes before faltering.

"I got a big lead and staggered in" the 56-11, 189-pound Barrington resident grinned. "It's a good thing we weren't playing a 36-hole match."

Joining Gow, Karas and Quinn in the round of eight will be Stan Abrams of Metacomb, Norm Lutz of Pawtucket, Marc St. Martin of Kirkbrae, Fred Schick Jr. of Alpine and Gary Reynolds of West Warwick. Reynolds, a 21-year-old University of Rhode Island senior, will have the unenviable task of matching shots with Quinn this morning.

The 6-foot-2, 190-pound North Kingstown native has a chance of registering an upset, however, because he played consistent, near-par golf in routing Steve Travis of Wannamoisett and Ron Letiecq of Wannamoisett yesterday.

Quinn, a 20-year-old senior at the University of Western Florida, gained his quarterfinal-round berth by defeating Pat DiPalma of West Warwick, 1 up, and Pete McBride of Lincoln, the 1969 state titlist, 4 and 3.

Lutz, the 1970 state champ, advanced by beating Joe Bardi of Alpine, 4 and 3, and Junie Ferro of Wannamoisett, 1 up; Schick, a 21-year-old Rollins College alumnus, ousted John Davis by default and Tom Cunningham of Wannamoisett, 4 and 3, and Abrams downed John Ritacco of Triggs, 5 and 3, before toping Smith.

Quarterfinal-round matches will be played this morning, beginning at 8 o'clock, with the semifinal draws set to begin about 1:30.

Offered Football Secrets, Police Say

Ex-Ram Charged With Fraud

New Orleans (AP) — Karl Sweatan, an unemployed quarterback, was accused yesterday of trying to peddle football secrets by selling a Los Angeles Rams playbook to the New Orleans Saints for $2,500.

Sweatan, 29, and his first cousin Wayne M. Bassell, 31, both of Dallas, were held in lieu of bond on federal charges of fraud after a brief hearing before a U.S. magistrate.

They were arrested at 3 a.m. in a motel here, allegedly while debriefing with Coach J. P. Edwards in the Saints' office. Knowing that he had talked in the FBI when first caught by telephone two days ago.

A playbook is a large notebook of diagrams of all offensive plays, defensive alignments and other aids — a veritable encyclopedia of a team's secrets.

Allen Remains First In A.L. Star Voting

New York (AP) — Dick Allen, the Chicago White Sox first baseman, remains the top American League vote-getter in the fans balloting for the July 25 All-Star baseball game at Atlanta.

The controversial slugger has received 664,173 votes and holds a wide margin over Detroit's Norm Cash for the starting first-base job. Cash has 440,458, with the voting to end tomorrow.

The latest figures released by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office yesterday also shows the other infield positions.

The final starting teams for the American and National League squads will be announced next week. The pitchers and remainder of the squads are chosen by the managers.

Polano Signs Contract With WHA Blazers

Philadelphia — Nick Polano, a 21-year-old defenseman from the Rhode Island Reds, for the last three seasons, yesterday signed a three-year contract with the Philadelphia Blazers of the World Hockey Association.

General Manager Dave Creighton of the Blazers announced the signing, Creighton formerly was general manager of the Reds.

Polano, a 6-foot, 187-pound native of Sudbury, Ont., scored five goals and 20 assists for the Reds last season.

He played his best figures in Providence during the 1970-71 American Hockey League season when he scored six goals and 29 assists. Polano was obtained by the Reds in 1969 from the Baltimore Clippers of the AHL.

Quinn, Abrams Reach Final in R.I. Amateur

Karas and Schick Ousted in Semis

By ED DUCKWORTH

Defending champion Ronnie Quinn of West Warwick will oppose Stan Abrams of Metacomet today in the 36-hole final of the State Amateur Golf Championship at the Agawam Hunt in East Providence.

Quinn, a 40-year-old lawyer who is seeking a record-equaling sixth title, gained his berth in the final yesterday by overpowering 21-year-old Gary Reynolds of West Warwick, 4 and 2, and 19-year-old Jody Karas of Wannamoisett, 5 and 4.

Abrams, a 30-year-old Boston lawyer who lost to Fred Campanelli in the final of the 1964 tourney, defeated Norm Lutz of Pawtucket, 12 up, and Fred Schick Jr. of Alpine, 2 up.

The first round of the championship match will get underway at 9:30 a.m. The afternoon round is scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m.

Quinn, who will be attempting to equal the late Dan Fairchild's record for R.I. amateur victories, comes into the final at the peak of his game.

The defending champion has not gone past the 16th green in any of his four match-play rounds and yesterday was three under par in defeating Reynolds and Karas.

However, he will be facing a formidable threat in Abrams, who has threatened par in several of his four match-play rounds.

Quinn and Abrams have been opponents twice in the state tournament and each has recorded a victory.

Quinn scored a 2-and-1 decision over Quinn in the semifinal round of the 1964 championship at Metacomet, then suffered a 3-and-2 loss to him in the quarterfinals of the 1968 tournament at Ledgemont.

Woods and Feuerbach, both from the Pacific Coast Club in Long Beach, Calif., heaved the weight out to 70-1½ and 68-10½ for the first two spots and Chicago's Oldfield, newest member of shotputting's elite, did 67-10½.

Matson, whose best for the day was 67-3½, had done 69-0¼ Friday during qualifying.

After putting for a sand-which the defending champion made desert of Karas in their semifinal match.

Quinn was one under par and four up after nine, then shaved another stroke from par on the back nine before closing out the match with a routine par at the 18th hole.

Abrams, a Harvard alumna who was the Journal-Bulletin's Honor Roll Boy when he started in three sports at Pawtucket West High School in 1960, was as effective

Yankees Win In 11th, 1 to 0; Sparky Saves

Minneapolis, St. Paul — (AP) — New York's Bernie Allen greeted reliever Wayne Granger with a leadoff home run in the 11th inning yesterday, giving Mel Stottlemyre and the Yankees a 1-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Allen drilled a 2-2 pitch over the right-field fence, for his second home run of the season. The 374-foot shot saddled Frank Quillicci with his first defeat as Minnesota's manager. He made a successful debut Friday night.

Stottlemyre left after Danny Thompson's leadoff single in the bottom of the 11th; the eighth hit off the right-hander, and Sparky Lyle came on and pitched his 12th save, tops in the majors. It was the first time in his career that Stottlemyre had gone more than 10 innings.

After the start of the base-line game was delayed for more than two hours by rain, Minnesota's Bert Blyleven and Stottlemyre, 8-10, each hurled seven-hit shutouts for 10 innings and each pitched out of trouble. Blyleven was helped by the fielding of shortstop Thompson and second baseman Rod Carew.

Chirley Manuel and Bobby Darwin opened the Twins' fifth with singles, but Manuel died on third with one out as Stottlemyre fanned George Mitterwald and Blyleven fouled out.

In the New York fourth, Roy White doubled and Ron Blomberg walked with a two-out stab of Allen's liner.

The Yankees blew a big opportunity in the seventh as White and Blomberg led off with singles, with White racing to third on Blomberg's smash off first baseman Harmon Killebrew's glove. Blyleven then fanned Allen, walked Cleo Nunez to load the bases, and whiffed Terry Kennedy. He then escaped the jam when Thompson kept Stottlemyre out.

Matson Fails to Qualify for Olympics

Ryun Wins 1,500-Meter Final

Eugene, Ore.—(AP)—Jim Ryun, running the last lap in a blistering 51.5 seconds, won the 1,500-meter final last night in 3:41.5 at the U.S. Olympic track trials and earned a berth on this nation's team for the Olympics in Munich.

His arms raised high in joyous excitement, Ryun crossed the finish line ahead of Dave Wottle, the NCAA champion, and Bob Wheeler of Duke.

Ryun was last in the field of 11 with 500 meters to go, moved into the middle of the tightly bunched field with 300 meters left and then raced into second with 200 meters remaining as Wottle briefly assumed command.

The 25-year-old Kansas flash, silver-medal winner in the 1968 Olympics, stormed around the final turn in full stride and swept past Wottle.

Ryun had told friends earlier in the week he would retire if he didn't finish among the top three in the trials.

Bruce Fischer of East Providence, running for the Syracuse Chargers, finished eighth in the 1,500 in 3:43.2.

Fifteen high jumpers, including the injury-plagued world-record holder, Pat Matzloff, advanced to the finals by clearing 8 feet, 10 inches.

Other jumpers who qualified for today's finals were Gene White, who is on leave from a Pennsylvania jail, where he is serving a term for forgery, and Reynaldo Brown, the nation's second-highest jumper, who missed badly on his first two attempts but cleared the bar on his third try.

A number of 7-foot veterans did not qualify, including Tom Woods, an Oregon State freshman and winner of the NCAA title last month, and Barry Schur, second in the NCAA meet and first in the AAU championships.

Others who did not make the finals were Barry Shepherd and Bill Elliott of the Pacific Coast Club and Clarence Johnson and Otis Burrell of the Bay Area Striders.

Chuck Smith of the Southern California Striders captured the finals of the 200-meter dash.

Smith, 24, who didn't compete in track until his senior season at Occidental College three years ago, raced home in 29.4, despite running into a 3.36 mile per hour wind.

Larry Burton of Purdue was second in 20.5 and North Carolina's Larry Black was third in 20.6.

Smith was a swimmer in high school and was discovered by a former Occidental coach, Dixon Farmer, running in an intramural meet. In his year of track at Occidental Smith was the NCAA College Division champ at 100 and 220 yards.

Randy Matson, the world record-holder, failed to make the U.S. team in the shot put when George Woods, Al Feuerbach and Brian Oldfield finished ahead of the Texas strongman.

Woods and Feuerbach, both from the Pacific Coast Club in Long Beach, Calif., heaved the weight out to 70-1½ and 68-10½ for the first two spots and Chicago's Oldfield, newest member of shotputting's elite, did 67-10½.

Special to the Journal-Bulletin Waterbury, Conn.—Sparky Maggard hit a home run, by home runs by Curt Suchan and Tom Maggard, the Pawtucket Red Sox defeated Elmira, 5-3, in an Eastern League game here last night.

Pawtucket went ahead, 2-0, in the second inning when Frank Mannering singled and Suchan hit a home run. It was his eighth of the season. Maggard hit his fourth home run of the season in the fifth inning and sent Pawtucket ahead, 3-0.

Pawtucket then added single runs in the sixth and seventh innings. Terry Williams started on the mound for Pawtucket and went eight innings, allowing three hits and three runs. He held Elmira scoreless over the first seven innings.

Vendredi Finishes Second in Solo Sail

About 150 persons lined the docks in near perfect sailing weather at the Fort O'Call Marina in Newport yesterday afternoon and greeted Vendredi 13, the second finisher in the London Observer (Singlehanded Transatlantic) race.

The Vendredi 13, a 128-foot schooner sailed by Jean Yves Terlain, crossed the finish line at the "R2" buoy and Breton Reef Light Tower at 12:15 p.m., about 15 hours behind the Pen Duick IV.

Both Alain Colas, skipper of Pen Duick IV, and Terlain, claimed records for their crossings.

Colas shaved five days off the old record for this race, set by Englishman Geoffrey Williams four years ago. Terlain had the distinction of manning the largest yacht ever sailed by one man across the Atlantic.

though not as spectacular yesterday.

The 6-foot-4, 210-pound blond lost only one stroke to par in his quarterfinal-round victory over Lutz, the 1970 state champion.

Then in the afternoon, Abrams went two up after four holes against Schick, a 21-year-old June graduate of Rollins, Fla., College before Schick drew even by winning the fifth and eighth holes.

But Abrams took the lead for good when he parred the 374-yard ninth hole after Schick had hit his second shot into a bunker and carded a bogey-five.

Abrams rolled in an eight-foot putt for a winning birdie at No. 10 before a bad chip forced him to lose the 382-yard 13th hole.

Schick remained one down from three until the pair reached No. 18, where Abram two-putted for a winning par after Schick had missed the green with his second shot and took another bogey.

Hulme Takes Pole Spot at Road Atlanta

Gainesville, Ga. — (UPI) — Denis Hulme hurled his bright orange Team McLaren car around the Road Atlanta course at 122.57 miles an hour yesterday and won the pole position for today's Canadian-American Challenge Cup Race by three-hundredths of a second from George Follmer.

Follmer turned in a speed of 122.45 miles an hour in his Porsche, and several other cars were also faster than the course record of 117.4 MPH.

Peter Revson, No. 2 driver for Team McLaren, took third place on the starting grid with a 1:14.4 time before blowing his engine on the pit straight.

Follmer, called in at the last minute to drive the Roger Penske turbocharged Porsche in place of injured Mark Donohue set the time in the afternoon session despite two spins — one caused by a bad tire and the other by a missed shift.

Despite the record-shattering performance by other cars, it appeared that Follmer's Porsche was the only car with the speed and preparation to run with the Team McLaren cars over the 195-mile distance.

The McLaren crew was expected to have little difficulty replacing the engine in Revson's car to have it running today.

Francois Cevert took fourth with a 1:15.2 time in an old McLaren. Milt Minter, in a Porsche, qualified fifth at 1:17.2.

The old track record was set by Jackie Stewart in a Lola last year. Hulme's pole-winning time was 1:14.13 and Follmer was clocked at 1:14.16.

Injured Melton Out for Year; Chisox Star Faces Surgery

Chicago — (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox' pennant hopes received a severe jolt yesterday when it was learned that their slugging third baseman, Bill Melton, will be lost for the season.

Melton, the American League's home-run champion in 1971 who was 27 years old on Friday, will be operated on for a herniated disc next week, according to club officials.

The White Sox yesterday acquired the contract of third baseman-outfielder Ed Spiezio from San Diego for an undisclosed cash settlement.

The addition of Spiezio will boost the Major League roster above the 25-man maximum. It will be necessary for General Manager Stu Holcomb to drop one player and Holcomb said that player's name will be announced today.

Melton, who had been sidelined June 23, suffered an injury last January while working on his patio in his Gulfport, Miss., home. Melton lost his balance on a ladder, fell and landed on his back.

The club's general manager, Roland Hemond, said he would try to obtain a comparable player in a trade and he has been talking to several clubs.

"It's more difficult to get players on waivers now that the trading deadline has passed," Hemond said.

Melton had been hitting .245 with seven homers and 30 RBI.

Abrams Upsets Quinn, 6 and 5, for R.I. Amateur Title

By ED DUCKWORTH

Ronnie Quinn will have to wait at least another year for a share of the R.I. Golf Association record.

Long-hitting Stan Abrams of Metacomb yesterday prevented Quinn from tying the late Dan Fairchild's mark of six titles by whipping the defending champion, grand slam in the 36-hole final of the State Amateur at the Agawam Hunt in East Providence.

Abrams' triumph was no fluke, even though it was an upset.

Fact is, the 6-foot-4, 210-pound former Harvard golf captain played steady, near-par golf and consistently kept Quinn on the defensive throughout the 31-hole match, which attracted a gallery of more than 1,500.

Both players said the turning point in the match came at the 42-yard 12th hole in the morning round.

There, Quinn hit his iron-shot approach only eight feet from the cup and appeared to have a good chance for a birdie that would have left him only one putt.

But before he had an opportunity to putt, Abrams holed a 30-foot birdie putt of his own from the fringe of the green. When Quinn missed his eight-footer, he fell three down.

"That really hurt," the 40-year-old West Warwick lawyer said later. "If he hadn't made his putt and I'd made mine, the match might have been a lot tighter."

Abrams agreed.

"Winning that hole gave me a big lift," he recalled. "Actually, it was like winning twice because it seemed as if I'd certainly lose the hole."

Abrams, a 30-year-old Providence resident who works as a real-estate lawyer in Boston, said he was nervous when the match began.

"I three-putted the first green, then went two down when I missed the green at No. 2 and made a bogey," he said. "But I finally got things under control on the third hole."

There, Abrams salvaged a par-five despite hooking his tee shot into trees.

"That shot from the trees steamed me down," he said. "I felt fine after that."

Quinn, who was making his seventh appearance in the final round of the R.I.G.A.-title tourney, said he had problems with his iron shots throughout the match.

"I just wasn't hitting the ball as well as I had been," he observed. "I couldn't make my iron shots go where I wanted them to go."

After he had lost his early lead by dropping the fifth and seventh holes, Quinn fell one down when he trapped his iron-shot approach on the 347-yard ninth and failed to make a par.

Abrams kept up the pressure and went two up by winning the 388-yard 10th with another par, then went three up when he sank the 50-foot-birdie putt on the 12th hole.

After the pair had halved (No. 13) Abrams took a four-up lead by winning the 355-yard 14th with a par when Quinn hooked his tee shot into some trees and registered another bogey.

"They matched the card the last four holes, so Abrams was four up when the morning round ended.

He went five up on the very first hole in the afternoon when Quinn pushed his four-iron second shot and failed to sink an eight-foot par putt.

Then, after Quinn had salvaged a par from a bunker at the 175-yard 16th, the defending champion launched his last counterattack.

The West Warwick lawyer clipped to within four feet of the cup and sank the putt for a winning birdie-four at the 502-yard 21st, then won the 470-yard 22nd with a par when Abrams took three from the fringe.

But Quinn put an end to his charge at the 168-yard 23rd when he three-putted from 30 feet for a bogey while Abrams was making a routine par.

From then on, Abrams said he was "just trying to hit greens and make pars," thereby forcing Quinn to make birdies.

Quinn made only one, at the 155-yard 26th.

He also made three bogeys, however, and Abrams, driving the ball about 10 yards farther than Quinn and obviously attempting to hit the center of the greens in regulation, wore down the champion with a string of pars.

The match ended at the 379-yard 31st when Quinn missed a four-footer and Abrams trolled in a three-foot putt for a winning par.

Smith Defeats Nastase For Wimbledon Crown

By C.W. News Service

Wimbledon, England — In one of the great finals in Wimbledon history, Stan Smith defeated Ilie Nastase, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, 4-6, 7-5, and won the all-England tennis championship yesterday. And what it came down to in the end were all the words that mean courage.

This marvelous match throbbed and pulsed for 160 minutes on the center court and in the dying moments the Romanian saved three match points and then muffed the simplest shot of all — a straightforward smash while at the net — because every nerve in his body had been tuned to handle a difficult one.

With his tremendous triumph, the 25-year-old from Sea Pines, S.C., becomes the first American since Chuck McKinley in 1963 to win the men's title at Wimbledon. And with Billie Jean King the victor over Evonne Goolagong of Australia Friday, the tourney marks the first time Americans have shared the coveted double since Tony Trabert and Louise Brough took the titles in 1955.

Smith said it himself: "80 per cent guts and a little luck."

Because Nastase was all that he had figured to be. This is no longer the deadpan comic with the throwaway shot nor the half-tempered showoff. The Romanian mutated a bit, mostly in Italian, and questioned a decision or two, but when it mattered most in those final sets, he played the kind of tennis that dream about.

No shot is impossible for him. His speed is phenomenal. His anticipation and quick reflexes turn a loose ball into the outright winner. But to Smith's credit, he never panicked and the only gesture he made on the court was to loop over the net at the end.

The American's game, by contrast, seems limited to the huge serve, the onrushing volley and hardline ground shots, but on those crucial points with the match in the balance, out would come a delicate drop shot and the concealed stop volley.

The test of his talents and courage came as early as the fifth game of that first set. He was serving at 40-15, double-faulted then and Nastase's running save with the ball seemingly put away made it deuce. Then Nastase had three advantage points before Smith rescued.

In the sixth game, Stan was unlucky. At game point for the American, a backhand hit down the line rattled the record and then scratched off the wood of Ilie's racket for a winner. It could have been Smith, 4-2, and serving. Instead he ended up at 3-all and then 4-all and was in trouble. Nastase was slipping his returns off the American's shoelaces and he could only volley defensively. Five times Stan staved off game points. Nastase finally broke him and then took the set at 6-4 and broke him again to one-love in the second set.

With the match drifting away, Smith began his charge. The shots that he had just missed now were falling sweetly.

"I feel confident," he had said all through this Wimbledon. "I'll get better."

Indeed, he did. Three games running and then the second set was his, 6-3.

Smith trailed, love-two, in the third set and then won another brilliant patch of three games in a row and ended the set at 6-3.

They were at four-all in the fourth when Nastase struck again, this time with a running forehand pass that left Stan staring. That game was gone and so was the fourth set, in Nastase at 6-4.

They were square now and in the battle of wills in that nail-biting fifth game. Smith led, 40-love, and the Romanian exploded. All afternoon he had penetrated Stan's defense with a whipped topspin lob off the backhand — the most difficult of shots — and now he did it again. Deuce, then add in. Elpe Ilie Smith was at game point. Nastase reached for the stars. One break point, another and another he had, and Smith saved them all. A diving stop volley, a forehand into the corner and then the big serve. And finally that little drop shot that defied over and put the big fellow at three-two.

"This game was crucial," said Smith. "I slowed myself down and took a couple of deep breaths. That game was gone. Now there was Smith at five-love and Nastase serving at 15-40. Two match points. A forehand was saved by Ilie's volley and a backhand fell over the line. Smith, 6-5 and 40-love down. The points came in a bunch and then the third match point. A forehand and Nastase bashed it away. Now the fourth match point. Up-

Angels' Ryan Fans 16

Anaheim — (AP) — Nolan Ryan pitched a one-hitter, struck out 16 and retired the last 25 batters as the California Angels beat the Boston Red Sox, 3-0 in a twilight game yesterday.

The right-hander, who gave up a leadoff walk to Tommy Harper and a one-out single to Carl Yastrzemski in the first inning, set an American League record of eight straight as he fanned nine men in the first three innings. His first strikeout came between the walk and the single.

Yastrzemski was the last man to reach base as Ryan, who came to the Angels from the New York Mets in an off-season trade, dominated the game.

The Angels broke through against Sonny Siebert for three runs in the fourth. Vada Pinson led off with a single and Bob Olevick sent him to third with a single. With one out, Ken McMillen drove in a run with a single and Leo Cardenas followed with an RBI single. The third run came in on Carlton Fisk's throwing error.

The major-league record for consecutive strikeouts is 10 by Tom Seaver of the Mets. The record for strikeouts in a game is 19 by Sea-

Saturday Game

Anaheim — (AP) — Sandy Alomar hit a two-run single in the 16th inning of Saturday night's game, giving the California Angels a 4-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox and snapping the Sox's winning streak at seven games.

Stu O'Brien led off the 16th with a single and was sacrificed to second by Leo Cardenas.
