R.I. PGA tournament

TAUNTON, Mass. — Tom Tetreault of Fall River, Mass., with a 71, yesterday won the Rhode Island Chapter of the PGA's monthly Ryder Cup at Segregantsett. He teamed up with Art Donovan for the best score, a 67, in the pro-am.

Best score for an amateur, 73, and four teams tied for low net in the pro-am at 63. Peter von Beck and Robert Palmer 3rd of Concord, Mass.; Rick Wicks and Bob Bordieri of Alpine; Tetreault and Doug Marchado of Fall River; and Ed Wornont and Bill Gaffey of R.I. Country Club.

Plaznik takes junior golf

NARRAGANSETT — John Plaznik carded a seven-over-par 79 and won the 16-17 division in a junior invitational golf tournament yesterday at Point Judith. Tony Salvadoro of Alpine was second, one stroke back, in the under-18 division, Richard Wilkinson of Crestwood and Pat Cannon of Rhode Island tied at 84 with Wilkinson getting the title in a playoff.

Sloop Charley home first in Transpac race

HONOLULU (AP) — The 67-foot sloop Charley was the first to finish the 32nd Biennial Honolulu Transpacific Yacht race yesterday, crossing the diamond-shaped finish line with an unofficial elapsed time of nine days, one hour, 53 minutes and 48 seconds. Record-holder Merlin was 30 miles behind Charley at yesterday morning, and was expected to cross the finish line late last night. The record crossing, set in 1977's race by the San Francisco-based, 67-foot Merlin, is eight days, 11 hours, one minute and 43 seconds. Behind Merlin was the 50-foot sloop Oaxaca, 188 miles from the finish line at yesterday's radio call, followed by the Samurai, 199 miles. The overall handicapped fleet leader was the 46-foot sloop Bravura, followed by Great Fun.

U.S. five tops Scotland

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Phil Cox scored 20 points and James Williams added 18, leading the United States to a 68-43 victory over Scotland yesterday in the final round of the William Jones Cup men's basketball championships. It was the fourth straight victory for the U.S., the defending champion. Scotland, now 3-1, was led by Ration Way, who scored 13 points.

(he didn't touch it) and made a big drive," he related.

He wasn't sure of the ruling, so he sought out a RIGA official and was told the swing did not count. He went on and parred the hole.

"Breaking the six-iron might have helped me," St. Martin said. "There were two other holes I would have hit it and I hit five-iron both times and made a birdie both times."

He HIT his five-iron approach on the 14th hole about eight feet from the stick and dropped that one, and did the same thing, with the same result, on the 18th.

One of the two players within a stroke of him is Battista, the 1980 champion, who had four birds in his round.

"I missed four (other) putts under five feet for birds," he said. He was one of those who was surprised the scores were so high. "It couldn't be set up any easier," he said. "The tees were up and almost all the pins were in the middle of the greens."

Zyons was happy where they placed the pins. A finalist in the state junior tournament two years ago, a berth he achieved with a 67, he rolled in a number of long putts, including a 30-footer on the 10th hole and a 35-footer on the 14th.

ANYONE whose falling to make the cut was John Winters of Wampanoet, who scored a hole-in-one on the 215-yard 10th hole. Winters finished with an 81.

After today's second round, the field will be cut to the low 32 for the start of match play, which runs through Friday's 36-hole title match.

Cape Codder 5 off lead in U.S. public

COLTS NECK, N.J. (AP) — Jim Horvath, a 35-year-old sports director for two Cape-Cod-based radio stations, was five strokes off the lead with a 3-over-par 75 on the first round yesterday of the U.S. Amateur Public Links Championship.

Horvath, of Dennis, Mass., shot 36-38 at the par-72 Hominy Hill Course. Paul Rudis of Olympia, Wash., had the lowest round, a 70.

After another 18 holes today, the field of 150 will be trimmed to 64.

Dibbs captures 'ugly' match at Longwood

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — Veteran Eddie Dibbs survived a series of warnings and penalties yesterday and fought off an upset bid by Stanislav Birner of Czechoslovakia in the first round of the U.S. Pro tennis championships.

Dibbs, 33, drew one warning, one penalty point and one game penalty from umpire Emma Catalini, and he refused to shake hands with Birner after escaping with a 2-6, 6-4, 7-6 victory that took nearly two hours. "I've had problems with him (Birner) before, in North Conway (N.H.) last year," said Dibbs.

"I don't even know what happened," he added about being warned for taking too much time and being penalized for "abuse of officials" and "abuse of opponent."

"I didn't insult her (Catalini). I just told her, 'You're better off at home. You're screwing up the match,'" said Dibbs.

"I gave him (Birner) a nerve earlier, but two games later he pointed two feet out on a close shot," Dibbs said. "I don't know about a rule that describes abuse of an opponent. He said sarcastically, 'Nice sport, but I was called for'."

upset than I did.

"And there's no rule that I have to shake an opponent's hand. If I don't like the guy, I don't have to shake his hand," said Dibbs.

Earlier in the day, 10th-seeded Mark Dickson of Tampa, Fla., survived his first-round test with a 5-7, 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Carlos Catalini of Argentina. Ninth-seeded Fernando Luna of Spain blasted local club teaching pro Bud Schultz, 6-3, 6-2.

NO CIGAR, Mark Battista reacts to a putt he missed on 18th that left him one shot off Amateur pace.

Clary, Zito, Quigley lead charge

By PAUL KENYON
Journal-Bulletin Sports Writer

BARRINGTON — He won the State Championship in 1978. But since then, Kevin Clary has been something of a forgotten man in the R.I. Golf Association Amateur Championship.

Yesterday, however, Clary held up the honor of the previous champions as he won two matches and became the only former titlist to advance to the quarterfinals in this year's tournament, at Rhode Island Country Club.

Those moving along with him included the medalist, Matt Zito Jr. of Kirkbrae; two of the state's best young players, Billy Andrade of Wampanoag and Ed Kirby of Kirkbrae; and a player competing in the event for the first time, 27-year-old Art Anderson, an Attleboro resident who plays out of Woodcock.

Paul Quigley of RICC, Steve Travis of Wampanoag and Steve Cole of Valley did the over-30 set round by competing the best and the competition, winning two matches and reaching the quarterfinals.

The eight survivors include many of the more successful competitors in the tournament in recent years — players like Zito, Quigley, Kirby and Andrade. One of the bigger surprises, even as a former champion, is Clary.

SINCE HE WON in 1978, Clary has not made it past the second round in this tournament. A couple of times he did not even qualify for match play.

R.I. Amateur

The 33-year-old accountant has had a number of good rounds in the New England Amateur, in U.S. Open qualifying and in other tournaments since winning the state title on his home course.

"But I've never really put enough together to be a serious challenger in anything," he offered.

Even in his two victories yesterday — a first-round, 2-and-1 triumph over Steve Prout of RICC and a decision over Publich champion Jeff Herzog of Triggs by the same score in the second round — Clary did not play as well as he would have liked.

"I hit some ugly drives out there," he said. "My irons have been good, almost perfect. But I've got to keep it in play first with my driver."

Clary, who plays right-handed but puts left-handed, came from behind in both of his matches yesterday. In the morning he won the 14th, 15th, 16th and 17th holes in eliminating Prout.

"I had never been ahead until then," he pointed out.

IN THE AFTERNOON, it was a virtual repeat. Herzog had a small lead all the way until Clary caught up by dropping a six-foot putt for a par on the 15th. Clary went 1 up with a par on 16, then won the match when he hit an eight-iron and practiced on the concrete side 10 to 10 inches of the hole for the easy birdie.

When Clary tees it up in the quarterfinals this morning, he will be involved in a battle of mathematicians: His opponent, Travis, is a mathematician at the Naval Underwater Systems in Newport. Travis has been a contender several times, with his best effort coming the year Clary won, in 1978, when he reached the semifinals.

Travis first outlasted highly regarded Pat Hogan of Newport in one of five 18-holes matches in the first round, then built a four-hole lead on the way to a 2-and-1 triumph over Joe O'Call of Green Valley in the second round.

Two other former champions had joined Clary in the second round but both were ousted. Kirby's Marc St. Martin was beaten by his clubmate, Kirby, who was one under par on the front side on the way to a 3-and-4 victory.

MARK BATTISTA of Wampanoag fell to a player who often has been his partner in tournaments, Quigley. That match offered probably the best golf of the day triumph.

"I was two under on the front nine, Mark was one under," Quigley related. "We had a battle between us (on that side)."

Zito, the medalist, first got past Dave Adamo, 4 and 3, then held off Pat Cunningham, 2 and 3, with the help of winning one hole when he correctly called a penalty on Cunningham for practicing his putting on a green. Cunningham had marked his out on the 10th hole and practiced on the concrete side 10 to 10 inches of the hole for the easy birdie, something that is not allowed under the rules.

Hallet 5-under at 139; Mass. Amateur medalist

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Jim Hallet turned his defense of the Massachusetts Amateur golf championship into a one-man show yesterday, outdistancing the medal play field by eight strokes at Woodland Golf Club.

When strong winds added several strokes to most scores over the par 72 course, Hallet, of Yarmouth, Mass., posted a 70-69 — 139 score, 5 under par, for the medal play section of the 75th state amateur. He leads the field into the start today of six rounds of match play.

Jim Ruschioni of Oak Hill Country Club in Fitchburg, was Hallet's nearest challenger at 75-72 — 147. Amherst College sophomore Paul Martin, of Winchester, at 71-77 — 148 and Bob Bradley, of Ponkapog, at 72-76 — 148, tied for third place.

"My aim is to play every round under par this year," said Hallet, a quarterfinalist in the U.S. Amateur last summer and low amateur at The Masters in April. He finished in a three-way tie for medalist honors in the tournament played at Tedesco last year.

"I know they're all like to beat me and if they play real well, they get the chance," Hallet said of the rest of the field, noting that his putting is much improved this year. "If someone is going to beat me, they're going to have to shoot 6 or 7 under par."

Gordie Ernst in final 16

SAN JOSE, Calif. — Gordie Ernst of Cranston, R.I., defeated Dave Massart of Elm Grove, Wis., 7-5, 6-3, in a grueling, two-hour match yesterday at the National Boys' 16 Hard Court Tennis Championships. The victory in the match, which was played in 100-degree temperatures, moved Ernst to the round of 16. He will play George Paulson of Irvine, Calif., today.

Eagles' owner now on 'hold'

MEDIA, Pa. (UPI) — A Common Pleas Court judge issued a preliminary injunction yesterday that prohibited Philadelphia Eagles owner Leonard Tose and his daughter from negotiating an agreement to buy or sell interest in the team until Sept. 15.

Delaware County Judge Howard Reed said the injunction stems from a petition by four investors who contended that Tose and his daughter, Susan Fletcher, signed a memorandum of understanding on June 17. They testified the memo outlined the terms for the sale of the Eagles to the group.

The investors, led by Louis Guida, maintained that Tose and Fletcher reneged on the deal because they were entering into negotiations to sell the team to another investor.

The investment group sued Tose a week ago, charging he attempted to back out of the deal to sell the team and had opened talks with another set of investors. Guida testified Tuesday that Tose accepted a $100,000 down payment to sell the NFL franchise. He maintained the memorandum, signed by Tose and Fletcher, was a binding agreement.

Tose has counter-sued the investors, seeking $15 million in punitive damages from the group. He said they concealed plans to resell part of the team to a convicted felon.

Reds' Bench honored by Mets before game

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Bench, who will retire at the end of this season after 17 years with the Cincinnati Reds, was presented with a diamond-studded, gold No. 5 pendant by the New York Mets last night during pre-game ceremonies.

Tom Seaver, current Mets pitcher and former teammate of Bench with the Reds, made the presentation, which also featured Arthur Richman, special assistant to the Mets' general manager, Frank Cashen.

The ceremony was the first among the 11 National League teams as Cincinnati makes its final appearance to either of the cities.

Bench, who was selected as the league's Most Valuable Player in 1970 and 1972 and the World Series MVP in 1976, said: "I feel honored to be singled out like this. Seventeen years in the major leagues is more than any young man can dream about and I think the Reds for the opportunity to have played baseball."

Bench, who has an all-time record of 324 home runs as a catcher, staged out the two Cincinnati managers for whom he played — Dave Bristol, Sparky Anderson, John McNamara and current pilot Russ Nixon.

REGGIE SMITH SMACKS TWO HOPPERS
TOKYO (AP) — Former U.S. major league Reggie Smith smashed a pair of home runs, one of them a two-run shot, but his Kansas City Royals were held to a tie by the Japanese League Japanese baseball before 52,000 spectators in Osaka.

Daniel fires 67, leads LPGA tourney by 2

MALVERN, Pa. (AP) — Beth Daniel, who hasn't won since last August, shot a five-under-par 67 yesterday and took the first-round lead by two strokes in the $350,000 McDonald's Kids Classic.

Daniel, leading money winner on the LPGA tour in 1980 and 1981, carded seven birdies and only two bogeys over the 6,283-yard White Manor Country Club course.

Anne-Marie Piau, a French golfer who was on the mini-tour last year after losing her card in 1981, was second at 69. She had two birdies and two eagles in addition to a pair of bogeys.

Cathy Morse, 56th on the money-winning list this year, was third at 70.

Veteran faces 'rookie' in final

By PAUL KENTON

BARRINGTON — There will be a marked contrast between the two players who will square off today for the R.I. Golf Association Amateur Championship.

One of the finalists, Paul Quigley of RICC, has been chasing the championship for the better part of two decades. He has come close a number of times. "I've been in the quarterfinals seven or eight times. I'm not sure which," he says.

But he's never won the tournament. The other finalist, Billy Andrade of Wamunetonomy, has never won the title, either. Then again, he never even played in the event until this year.

Neither Andrade nor Quigley matches yesterday at the Rhode Island Country Club and moved into today's 36-hole title match.

Andrade was two-under-par in the morning as he outplayed tourney medalist Matt Zito of Kirkbrase, 2 and 1, and the fourth past former champion Kevin Kirby of Potowomut 4 and 2 in the quarterfinals.

QUIGLEY, MEANWHILE, got past Art Anderson of Woonsocket, 4 and 3, in the quarterfinals, then beat a much less notable lead on the way to a 2 and 1 victory over Steve Cole of Valley.

"It's every player's dream to win their state tournament," says Quigley, a 37-year-old insurance man. "When I made the first try in 1974, when he lost to Leo Marcotte at Kirkbrase I was happy just to be there. I'm happy to be here now, but I want more. I want to win.

After opening with a six-over-par 77 in the first round of qualifying on Monday, Quigley has played superbly on his home course, capped by his strong play yesterday.

He was at his best in the semifinals when he made three birdies on the front nine, and was one under par for that side. Cole made it more interesting by winning the 14th and 15th holes, but never really was a threat.

Cole, who was a star as a youngster, has won the State Four-Ball in 1968 with Bob McTannay — in 1971 he won the same back in single days having quit the sport for several years. He was obviously tired in the afternoon after eliminating last year's beaten finalist, Ed Kirby of Kirkbrase, 1 up, in the morning quarterfinals.

He was exhausted, the 34-year-old Cole admitted. "Until Monday, I never played a golf course in my life. I was not helped by the fact that after playing 36 holes in two victories Wednesday, he had gone to work for several hours that night in the catering business he owns.

FOR THE past two years, Andrade has been in Texas during Amateur week, playing in the Future Legends of Golf national junior tournament. The former national junior champion now is too old for that event.

Against Zito in the quarterfinals, Andrade won the first two holes and never trailed.

In the afternoon, Clary pushed Andrade hard again as the pair halved nine of the first 11 holes. Andrade won the third hole and Clary pulled even by taking the 11th hole with a par.

Andrade, however, won the 13th with a par, then took both the 15th and the 16th when Clary missed three-foot putts. The fact that two missed short putts settled the match was ironic since Kirby had stayed alive with some outstanding putting, including a 60-footer for a halve on the eighth hole. That putt gave him a par despite having hit his second shot into a water hazard and taking a penalty stroke.

"He's such a good chipper and putter. That's tough to play against in match play," said Andrade, who was more than equal to the lead even though he was four-over-par for the 16 holes.

He said Quigley will not need to be introduced today. While Andrade plays out of Wamunetonomy, his family also has a membership at RICC, and he and Quigley have often played weekend matches as both partners and opponents.

QUARTERFINALS: Billy Andrade, Wamunetonomy, def. Matt Zito, Kirkbrase, 2 and 1; Paul Quigley, RICC, def. Art Anderson, Woonsocket, 4 and 3; Steve Cole, Valley, def. Ed Kirby, Kirkbrase, 1 up.

SEMI-FINALS: Billy Andrade, Wamunetonomy, def. Matt Zito, Kirkbrase, 2 and 1; Paul Quigley, RICC, def. Art Anderson, Woonsocket, 4 and 3.

Newport aces with Goalby

By GENE BUONACCORSI

NEWPORT — A hole-in-one is something to treasure, whether you play golf for fun or for money. And that special thrill isn't experienced very often, even if you are in the pro end of the game.

Which is why Bob Goalby got a big kick out of the ace he recorded yesterday at the 187-yard, par-three, eighth hole at the Newport Country Club during the practice round of the Merrill Lynch-Golf Digest Commemorative Pro-Am Tournament.

"I was stunned," said the 53-year-old Belleville, Ill., native whose top treasure is the 1968 Masters championship jacket. "I saw it hit about 10 feet short of the pin and figured I was close. When I got to the green a spectator told me the ball took a high bounce, hung on the lip and fell in."

He used a five-iron on the shot. To give you an idea of the odds, this was only the seventh hole-in-one in Goalby's pro tour career, which started back in 1957. It is his first on the Senior Pro tour.

GOALBY TOURED the ancient course, site of the first U.S. Amateur and U.S. Open back in 1895, in four-under-par 68.

Things would have been a lot better except for bogeys on the ninth and 18th holes.

"I didn't want to do it all today," Goalby quipped as he shook hands with his caddy, his 16-year-old son,

Kelly. "I had to save something for the tournament itself."

Playing with Goalby and a pair of amateurs was Miller Barber who won $104,890 on the Senior Tour last year.

Goalby and Barber will be among 40 senior pros who will tee off this morning in search of the $25,000 first prize in this $150,000, 54-hole tournament. With them will be 120 amateurs. Each of the amateurs paid $2,750 for the privilege of rubbing elbows with some of the big names of golf and a bit of V.I.P. treatment.

And, there are plenty of big names here this weekend. Such as defending champion Bill Casper, 1980 winner Sam Snead and 1981 titleholder Doug Ford. Also, Julius Boros, Gay Brewer, Gene Littler, Roberto DeVicenzo, Gardner Dickson, Doug Masters, Bob Toski, Charlie Sifford and Rod Thorn.

CASPER WON last year's title by holding off Tomi in a sudden-death playoff that went four extra holes. Casper bit his lip on the fourth as he was frosting on the cake.

The tournament format calls for each pro to play with a different group of amateurs today and tomorrow. Competition will start at 7:40 a.m. each of the first two days of play. Only the pros will compete Sunday.

Ticket sale for the tournament will benefit three New England charities — Meeting Street School, Easter Seal Society of Rhode Island and the Joseph D. Center in Boston and the Seaport 76 Foundation of Newport. Tickets are available at the gate. Youngsters 16 and under will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult who purchases a ticket.
